
CRISOCOLLA

Antolini Precioustone

Since ancient times, native American Indians used crisocolla to increase physical strength and speed up the healing process of wounds.

Crisocolla – from the Latin Chrysocolla – is the name of a stone with green and blue colourings which has many soothing and calming properties. The glassy shine of this gem helps control sensitivity and makes it easier to bravely face difficult challenges.

The largest deposits are in Peru, the United States, Australia, Europe and Zaire. All the slabs and cut-to-size pieces - which are suitable for interior decoration - contain elements that are assembled and arranged by hand. The high copper content makes it particularly suitable for fighting anaemia and breathing problems caused by pollution.

To balance the metabolism and control emotions.

Origin: Italy

The logo for Allied Gallery, featuring the word "Allied" in a clean, sans-serif font and "Gallery" in a blue, flowing script font, both enclosed within a blue, curved swoosh that underlines the text.

Allied
Gallery